

Announcement for Electronic Journal of General Medicine Award Programs for Best Paper and Best Reviewer

Best Paper Award Program

The Editorial Board of Electronic Journal of General Medicine (formerly known as European Journal of General Medicine) is pleased to announce the establishment of Best Paper Award Program to encourage the publishing of exceptional quality and high impact papers. The recipient of the award will receive a Certificate and an honorarium of 10,000 USD. In the case of co-authored papers, a certificate will be provided to each contributing author and the honorarium is divided evenly among authors. The winner will be selected by a committee of Editor-in-Chiefs and Associate Editors.

The committee will consider the following criteria to select the winner:

- Originality
- Contribution to and advancement of the field
- Scientific impact

Out of three criteria, scientific impact will be considered to be the most important one. The following items will be considered to calculate the scientific impact: 1) Average monthly citation statistics in SCOPUS, 2) Average monthly citation statistics in Web of Science, 3) Average monthly citation statistics in Google Scholar, 4) Average monthly download statistics from journal website.

Research articles that are submitted between 15 February 2018 and 14 February 2019 will be eligible. Editorials, Commentaries, and Short Communications will not be eligible.

Best Reviewer Award Program

The quality of the Electronic Journal of General Medicine is dependent on the tireless work of its dedicated reviewers. We pleased to announce the establishment of Best Reviewer Award Program. The recipient of the award will receive a Certificate and an honorarium of 2,000 USD.

Any individual reviewer submitting their reviews between 15 February 2018 and 28 February 2019 will be considered as a candidate for the award, except the Editor-in-Chiefs and Editors. The Editors will select the winner based on

- Number of reviews
- Average turn time
- Quality of reviews

The recipients of the awards for each program will be selected in June 2019 and announced on the journal website.

<http://www.ejgm.co.uk>