

Important Editorial Announcements

Thanks to the contributions of fellow researchers, Electronic Journal of General Medicine (formerly known as European Journal of General Medicine) is celebrating its 14th year in publication. The journal is now included in major indexes and databases such as ESCI and SCOPUS. We are a dynamic community that renews itself to the needs and standards of the modern era. Hence, on behalf of the Editorial Team, we are pleased to make important announcements.

- 1) Title of “European Journal of General Medicine” is changed to “Electronic Journal of General Medicine” (abbreviated as Electron J Gen Med; ISSN 2516-3507). Starting with volume 15 issue 2, the journal will be released under the new title Electronic Journal of General Medicine.
- 2) Electronic Journal of General Medicine was published in print and online before. Starting with volume 15 issue 2, the journal will be published online only.
- 3) Publication frequency of Electronic Journal of General Medicine is changed from quarterly to bimonthly. Starting with volume 15 issue 2, the journal will be published as 1 volume per year with 6 issues.
- 4) Starting with volume 15 issue 2, article numbers will be used to identify individual articles instead of page numbers.
- 5) Similarity Check will be used to prevent academic dishonesty.
- 6) Electronic Journal of General Medicine is pleased to announce new award program for best paper (including a certificate and an honorarium of 10,000 USD) and best reviewer (including a certificate and an honorarium of 2,000 USD).

Note that above changes do not affect the indexing status of the journal. Electronic Journal of General Medicine will continue to be indexed by ESCI and SCOPUS. As a peer-reviewed medical journal publishing original articles in the fields of general medicine, Electronic Journal of General Medicine continues its dedication to serve as an international forum of high quality research material.

We would like to thank all of our Editorial Board members, authors, readers and reviewers for their ongoing support.
